HALIBURTON BANTAMS REACH ONTARIO FINALS

Haliburton has always been noted as being a top notch hockey centre, and in past years the community has iced several great hockey clubs in Senior, Intermediate, Junior, Juvenile, Midget, Bantam and divisions on down the line.

Being associated with local hockey clubs during these years we have had plenty of thrills, but also have witnessed many disappointments. One of the main disappointments has rested in the fact that although Haliburton teams have come close to taking top honours they have never won an Ontario hockey championship.

Could this perhaps be the year? The job ahead rests entirely on the shoulders of the Haliburton Bantams, who after their 5-3 victory over Wellington on Saturday night last have gained entry into the All-Ontario O.M.H.A. Finals.

There's only one more round to play and this will be a best two out of three series against either Copetown or the Sarnia Indian Reserve. These two teams are presently tied at one game and the final and deciding game of the series will be played this Sunday, April 7. The winner will then meet Haliburton in the O.M.H.A. Bantam Finals, and the series should start some time next week. Keep an eye open for posters, announcements on TV or in this newspaper for the dates of these upcoming play-off games.

To reach the All-Ontario Finals the Haliburton Bantams, showing plenty of class and championship form, won their own league title quite handily, and in O.M.H.A. Play-offs they have disposed of teams from Orono, Elmville, South River and Wellington.

After winning the first game against Wellington in Haliburton by the score of 4-2 they wrapped up the semi-final series with a 5-3 victory in Wellington last Saturday night. Once again it was Cameron Botting leading the way for the locals with two goals while single markers went to Paul Dawson, Peter Lymburner and Ricky Woods.

Right from the beginning of the season this team from Haliburton have looked like winners, and so far they have proven their critics to be right.

Backed up by steady netminding on the part of Dennis Good and a strong defence, plus plenty of speedy forwards and last but not least lots of desire, this Haliburton club should and could go all the way. The team have a first class Coach and Manager team in Jim Scheffee and Cliff Dawson, and these two men deserve a lot of credit for taking their entry to the top.

You can show the team that you are behind them by coming out and cheering them on in this all important upcoming series.

The Echo would like to join with hockey fans throughout Haliburton County in wishing the Bantams the best of luck in this final showdown series. If you are a true hockey fan you won't want to miss it.

Strong Protest Re Removal Of Agent

Over fifty interested citizens of this area attended an open meeting in Haliburton on Thursday last to voice their protests against the removal of the Canadian National Railways Agent from Haliburton.

Mr. William Scott, M.P., who was in the main responsible for having C.N.R. officials present, stated that he had opposed the removal of the agent from Kinmount and said that since the removal of the agent the C.N.R. business has decreased, and the Member thought the loss of agents at Haliburton and Fenelon Falls would result in further loss of business.

Dysart Reeve Roy Brohm said that he was glad to welcome Mayor John Eakins of Lindsay to the meeting, and asked him to address the meeting. Mayor Eakins urged the citizens of Victoria and Haliburton to start fighting for our place in the sun. The speaker said the transfer of C.N.R. services was just another victory for Peterborough, and he urged the residents of these two counties to unite and yell like hell. "If we do not co-operate we will fall by the wayside", said Mayor Eakins.

The Lindsay Mayor drew support from Reeve Roy Brohm who agreed that this was the first step towards the elimination of rail service between Lindsay and Haliburton. The Reeve of Dysart told of the thousands of tourists who are coming into this area in ever increasing numbers and said that instead of decreasing railway services they might try the inauguration of new services, and cited a commuter service between Toronto and Haliburton as an example.

H. J. Fast, Manager of C.N.R.'s Rideau Area, and D. J. MacGillivray, Superintendent of Express and Freight, stated that the C.N.R. has no intention of abandoning this line. He said that fears of the Dysart Council and others that the service will be curtailed were groundless. Said officials would not say whether the Lindsay and Haliburton line was making money or not. Mr. Fast, in answer to a question regarding summer service, said that three trains per week handling freight and express would be coming into Haliburton.

Employees Of Bell Honored

Recently three employees of the Bell Telephone Company of Canada were honoured by the Ontario Safety League for their contribution to traffic safety at the Annual Safe Drivers Award Banquet.

The banquet, which was held at the Rock Haven in Peterborough, featured awards to many Bell Telephone drivers who had completed from one to twenty-five years of accident-free driving.

Russell Woodcock of Haliburton received the 7-year award, while John Stapley was presented with the 2-year award. Mike Newell of Minden has earned the award for 13 years of driving without an accident.

These former Dysart employees are to be congratulated for their efforts in practising defensive driving over the years and their personal contribution towards public safety in the communities where they work.

Local Boy Receives Fellowship Award

Three area persons were among a record number of Canadian scholars to receive doctoral fellowships in the Social Sciences and Humanities, the Canada Council announced recently.

Recipients of the fellowships were W. H. Newtonsmith, son of the Victoria County Probation Officer, C. G. Plourde of West Guilford, and J. M. Colthart of Beaverton.

Of the 2,500 candidates for the awards 1,554 were successful.

The awards are worth from $3,500 to $5,500 plus travel expenses, and bonuses of $1,000 go to a very limited number of top candidates. The applicants were screened by 12 committees of specialists from various universities across Canada.

12) There will also be construction on Highway No. 35, which will be in the form of clearing from 1.0 miles south of Carnarvon village, northerly, a total distance of 6.0 miles.

13) Also for clearing in preparation for construction on Highway No. 35 will be a distance of 7.3 miles starting at the south junction of Highway No. 121 below Minden village towards Norland.

$30,000 Allocated For Dam 12 Miles North East Of Dorset

TORONTO (CP) — The Province will spend $260,000 on reconstruction of dams in the districts of Hastings, Nipissing, Haliburton and Thunder Bay, Works Minister Ray Connell announced recently.

The program includes $100,000 on McGraw Falls dam on the Matawin River, Thunder Bay District, to control the flow from a drainage area of 340 square miles; Big Mink Lake dam in Hastings County near Maynooth $65,000; Hay Lake dam on Otter Creek south of Whitney in Nipissing District, $65,000; Livingstone Lake dam in Haliburton County 12 miles northeast of Dorset $30,000.

Health Unit Seek Office Location

Mr. Roy Brohm, Reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al, and Mr. Charles Brandon, Reeve of the Municipality of Anson, Hurdon and Minden, were on a tour of the village of Haliburton on Wednesday afternoon looking for an office location suitable for the new Health Unit.

Both Reeves are the Haliburton County representatives on the Victoria-Haliburton Counties Health Unit.

Minden Bantams Bow Out

Minden Bantams were eliminated from the 'E' division of the O.H.M.A. Semi-Finals at the Dysart Community Arena on Saturday evening last before nearly 300 fans who came to lend their vocal support to the young players.

It was apparent in the first period that this was not Minden's night as in the very early stages of the game a defensive lapse allowed Schomberg their first goal. Penalties proved very costly for the Minden Bantams as they were continually short-handed, and their efforts in staving off the opposition placed undue strain on those who were endeavouring to hold Schomberg from making it a runaway contest.

We might say that the boys from Minden never gave up trying and when they scored their last goal they had two men in the penalty box, which is quite some feat.

However, the Schomberg team were really up for this one and at one time in the game they led by a score of 4-0, but Minden fought back with goals by Bev Hicks and Jeff Campbell to make the final score 4-2.

SPORTS FLASH

Highway Link "Disgraceful"

LINDSAY (ENS) — The condition of Highway 35 between Lindsay and Haliburton was described as "disgraceful" by Lindsay Mayor John Eakins in a speech here last Thursday.

He said he could not blame tourist organizations for not showing the highway on maps as a major route. "Because of the condition of the highway, we should do all in our power to keep as quiet as possible about the highway."

Noting the highway is billed as the "scenic route" the Mayor said: "Scenic it may be, but one dare not take one's eyes off the road to admire the scenery."

The stretch of the highway between Norland and Haliburton must rank as one of the worst in the province, he maintained.

The Mayor said although Ontario is the land of opportunity and plenty there is great opportunity for plenty of work to be undertaken on Highway 35 to bring it up to the condition of major roads in the Muskokas.

He said the Counties of Victoria and Haliburton are being sadly neglected by provincial authorities, and said it is time someone stood on their feet and fought for this area.

Did You Know

Ontario Hydro's Pickering generating station near Toronto is the province's third nuclear-electric plant? When operating in 1970, it will provide power at a cost competitive with or cheaper than that produced by coal-fired stations.

Ontario Hydro's current expansion program — designed to double its generating capacity of 9,000,000 kilowatts within 10 years — will equal the Commission's accomplishments in the previous 61 years of its history?

Mrs. Kay Lunham Blasts Railway Officials - 'Move Isolates Large Area'

HALIBURTON (ENS) — A charge that Canadian National Railways are isolating one of the largest areas in Ontario was levelled by a spritely 72-year-old Boskung Lake resident during a three-hour public meeting held here last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Kay Lunham drew warm applause from the audience of 50 as she rained questions on C.N.R. officials: H. J. Fast, Manager, Rideau Area, and D. J. MacGillivray, Superintendent of Express Freight Rideau Area, Belleville.

The meeting was arranged in the wake of growing resentment over C.N.R.'s decision to streamline its freight and express operations and replace agents here and at Fenelon Falls with "on-hand representatives".

The silver-haired woman, who stood only inches from the C.N.R. officials while she peppered them with questions maintained since removal five years ago of the passenger service between Haliburton and Lindsay "one of the largest areas in the province has been virtually isolated".

She said the reason people stopped using the trains was because the company offered such a poor service.

"We are all taxpayers in the C.N.R.," she declared. "Why should we pay taxes and receive no service in return?"

"I was brought up with the railroad", Mrs. Lunham said. Her father was a fireman on one of the last "woodburners". After retiring from the railroad her father worked on a comprehensive history of the railroad in Canada.

She wanted to know of the officials why Victoria and Haliburton Counties were being discriminated against. "Why is it that in practically every other place in Ontario you can go on vacation by rail?"

The lack of rail service to "this fabulous summer vacation area" was termed discriminatory.

In answer to one question Mr. Fast agreed the company is still operating many services which are not paying their way.

Mrs. Lunham persisted: "Then why are you isolating one of the largest areas in this province? Are we people not entitled to the same consideration as those living in the Muskokas?"

She said she was only one of many citizens who deplored the decision to remove the station agent.

Mrs. Lunham claimed, as did many speakers, the decision to centralize freight and express operations in Peterborough was "only the first nail in the coffin". She maintained that within five years there would be no rail service between Lindsay and Haliburton.

Mr. Fast assured citizens there is no intention of abandoning the line. He said fears expressed by Dysart Council and area businessmen that the service is to be curtailed are groundless.

In addition to the freight trains which travel regularly between the two points, special passenger trains taking youngsters to summer camps in the Haliburton Highlands would continue to operate. He indicated if interest is sufficient to warrant additional trains being used during summer months this will be done.

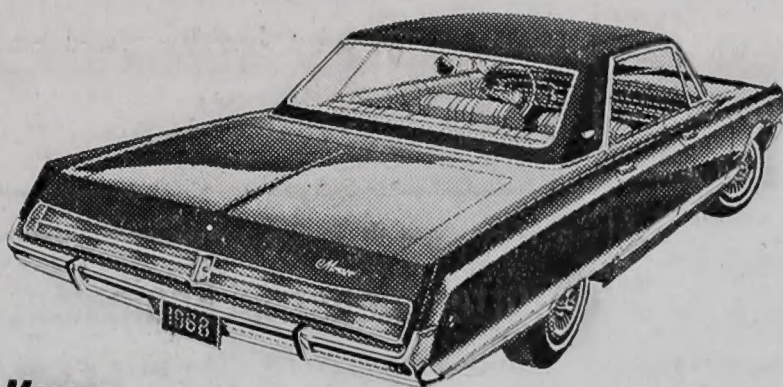

The company official said the move to Peterborough would not make any difference to service as far as the customer is concerned.

RELEASED FROM CAPTIVITY

Had a taste of utter domestic freedom and peace during the recent holidays. Daughter Kim went out to spend a few days with her Mum in the city. And there I was, all alone in the big house.

For the first time in years, nobody to bug me. Not a soul to tell me it was time to get up or go to bed. Nobody to tell me to stop doing this, or start doing that. Nobody to natter away while I was trying to read the paper.

It was a wild, delicious feeling. Only a man who is beleaguered by women most of his waking hours can appreciate how I felt. I just decided to let 'er rip, go the whole hog and let the chips fall where they might.

First morning I slept right through. Until 8:30. I even lay there, grinning defiantly and said, right out loud, "I won't get up until I feel like it." And there was no argument.

Seven minutes later, instead of the usual juice, toast and coffee, I ripped the cap off a bottle of beer and drank it, right there in the living-room, not the kitchen, with my bare feet up on the best chair. It gave me a glorious sense of sheer freedom. And a headache.

But I didn't care. I read the morning paper for 20 minutes straight without being interrupted. Unheard of luxury!

For the rest of the day, I not only threw convention to the wind, but flouted every domestic rule that has been pounded into me in 20 years.

I read a novel instead of marking exam papers. I deliberately let my whiskers grow, right through until noon. I maliciously dirtied every ash-tray in the house. I refused to take out the garbage. I got crumbs all over the kitchen floor and just left them there, crunching happily around in them. I didn't even go down to the basement and do the washing.

I read Mad magazine. I threw a stack of exam papers on the floor and kicked them all over the room. I ripped up a couple of bills that came in the mail.

And I ate whatever and whenever I darned well pleased. Peanut-butter and jam sandwich and a bowl of oyster soup for lunch. With a wine sauce that I never got around to cooking. Didn't eat until some crazy hour. About 12:30.

At dinner-time, I did the same. Just sneered at the big roast of beef cooked for me before the girls left. Had exactly what I wanted, pork and beans. And exactly when I felt like it. About 6 p.m.

I just let the old dishes pile up anywhere. Didn't even put them in the sink. In fact, I sneered at them a couple of times as I walked through the kitchen looking for somebody to talk to.

That night I carried right on with my orgy of freedom. Had a brandy and a cigar somebody gave me six months ago when his wife had a baby. Searched out relentlessly and watched three westerns on TV, including the late-late.

Did I go to bed then? Not on your life. Went down and without so much as a by-your-leave, made myself a big, fat roast beef and horseradish sandwich. Washed it down with four cups of my special coffee, the real thing that you can stand a spoon in.

And when I went to bed, it was exactly when I felt like it, with no nagging. It was about 1:30, as I recall. And it was about 4:30 when that snack wore off and I went to sleep.

Next day wasn't so wild or hilarious, quite. Oh, the freedom was still there. But so were the dishes and crumbs and ash-trays and exam papers. And nobody else. I must admit a small surge of pure rage went through me because nobody had cleaned the place up.

I didn't just give up, though. I went right on dirtying dishes and paddling around in my pyjamas and smoking like a diesel truck.

On the third morning, the cleaning lady arrived. She was a little taken back when I embraced her heartily. And she was even more surprised when I followed her about all morning, babbling away about nothing.

There's nothing like freedom. Wives should go away and leave their husbands alone for a few days, once a year. It would save a lot of marriages.

How Do You Feel In The Morning?

To wake up in the morning with a merry song in your heart and to hear the birds filling the air with song, or to wake up heavy clouded and with heavy eyes and a headache, then that is misery.

It is no wonder that those who wake up with a merry heart are cheerful and are able to continue to be cheerful for the rest of the day. Those who open their eyes only to find the whole world in a distress are apt to be snappy, gloomy, sour and disagreeable. We have to feel sorry for those who feel like that; probably they are ill or unhappy.

But when we have done nothing wrong and are snubbed at, it is better to meet that kind of misery with a kind heart. If it is a man he will bang the doors, and everything that does not suit him he will put the blame on his wife or whoever the cause. If it is a woman she will rush around the room, untie parcels and shake out the contents and scatter the wrappings all over the floor. She has given way to her mood, of finding things cruel and repulsive; she may sing, laugh or jump. Then she may start talking or singing, until she is excited, and then give way to tears. This will likely be the last straw, and we ourselves will either give way to tears in turn or will take flight.

But if it is a man he may not give way to tears, unless he is very hungry. But he also can give way to many other things, so do not argue or start any conversations. It is better to wait until the human storm is past.

There are many friends lost from each other re an argument. It is better to give in to such rather than win the argument and lose a friend. Friends are more important to us all.

IN MEMORIAM

DEAN — In loving memory of a dear grandfather, James Dean, who passed away April 1, 1965. Although we smile and make no fuss,

No one misses him more than us; And when old times we often recall, That's when we miss him most of all.

Wishing today as we've wished before,

That God could have spared him many years more.

— Lovingly remembered by grandchildren Alcide, Evaline, Paul and Danny.

McKNIGHT — In loving memory of Harry David McKnight, who passed away March 30, 1965. Who deepest drinks of sorrow Drinks deepest too of grace,

He sends the storm so He himself Can be our hiding place. — Ever remembered by wife Norma and sons Dale, Everett and Norman.

CHURCH NEWS

HALIBURTON U.C.W.

The Easter meeting of the Haliburton United Church Women from Unit 1 was entertained at the home of Mrs. Jack Robertson on Monday evening, April 1, with a good attendance.

In the absence of the Leader, Mrs. C. Chambers, due to illness, her assistant Mrs. J. Robertson presided over the meeting.

The hymn "Rejoice the Lord is King" was sung, and Mrs. W. R. Curry read a poem entitled "Borrowed", which pertained to the Easter program, and also the Scripture from the book of Matthew.

Mrs. Jack Robertson presented the Meditation, using the word Easter as an acrostic with the following meanings: E - an everlasting Saviour, A - an accepted Saviour, S - a seeking Saviour, T - a triumphant Saviour, E - an ever present Saviour, R - a returning Saviour.

Mrs. Wes Baker offered prayer and the offering was received.

and dedicated.

During a short business period arrangements were made for a bale of clothing to be made ready. A report was given by Mrs. C. Watt, Supply Representative, that 30 pounds of old used nylons had been sent recently, and people were asked to continue saving them.

Instead of having a regular Study on Japan, the members were invited to another room where a great many articles of clothing, knick-knacks, etc. from Japan were on display. Pictures of Japan were shown on screen which Mrs. J. Robertson had taken on her trip there a few years ago. While a social time ensued several of these beautiful costumes were modelled by a few people.

A vote of thanks and appreciation was tendered Mrs. Robertson for her kind hospitality by Mrs. (Rev.) R. McCaw.

Mrs. Olga Black and Mrs. W. R. Curry were hostesses for the dainty refreshments served.

News From Bank Of Montreal

MONTREAL, March 29 — Canada's ability to meet its future energy requirements "seems indeed limitless", according to the Bank of Montreal in its Business Review for March, just issued.

"This country is so rich in all known energy resources that, if anything prevents Canada from realizing its national goals, it is not likely to be lack of energy needed to fuel an advanced industrial society," the B of M states.

Despite the huge reserves available, remoteness from industrial centres and easy access to foreign supplies resulted in a deficit in Canada's international trade in energy producing resources. From a peak of $500 million in 1951, the deficit was reduced to $155 million in the next 15 years, through official policy emphasis on exports and technological and transportation improvements.

In addition, a greater part of Canada's energy demands has been met by the development of varied energy producing resources.

ENERGY PROSPECTS

"In the years ahead, the need to supplement this country's highly developed hydro-electric resources with increased use of thermal electric installations may well improve coal's prospects," the B of M continues.

"Nor is it only on the domestic front that technological developments augur well for coal. Advances in transportation techniques... contributed to the recent conclusion of an agreement with Japan for the sale of coal from Alberta."

In the past decade, petroleum accounted for the major part of Canada's trade deficit in energy. Although Canada now produces almost as much crude oil as it consumes, refineries in Quebec and the Maritimes continue to be supplied by foreign oil.

Canada's reserves include not only conventional oil but tar sands oil. "The potential of the tar sands is staggering; the estimated reserves of 600 billion barrels... exceed the world's total conventional crude oil reserves."

Equally impressive are Canada's reserves of natural gas of more than 49 trillion cubic feet. In the past ten years, production expanded more than four fold and, during 1967, over one trillion cubic feet were consumed in the home market. A key factor was the building of long-distance gas pipelines to consumer markets in Canada and the United States.

TECHNOLOGY RESPONDS

"The electric power industry offers an excellent example of the response of technology to new and expanding needs," the B of M states. "As total electrical loads grew geometrically over the last two decades, continued research led to advances in extra-high-voltage transmission techniques and to the development of larger turbo-generators."

Thermal energy has made a "very considerable contribution" to the nation's power economy, rising from 7 per cent of installed generating capacity in 1946 to 68 per cent in 1967.

"Canada not only has generous supplies of coal, petroleum and gas to fuel thermal plants but also proven reserves of 210,000 tons of uranium."

Country Church |Boskung

ST. STEPHEN'S, BOSKUNG

By JANE FAIRFIELD

In pioneer days, as soon as the settlers were established in the little log home, the Sabbath weighed heavily and was a long lonely day until a meeting place and service to attend could be provided.

The women folk especially pushed this — the first community project — after the day school, and so the fathers in these far off woods made plans to build a church within walking or rowing distance. Such was the case on Boskung Island, once a thriving farming community.

Now we see trees growing in the once cultivated fields, and cottages replace the old farm homes, but still one of the loveliest churches stands amid God's Acre, donated from the farm of Thomas Godwin, whose 18 year-old son was drowned from the Drive in Horseshoe Lake and was the first grave beside the new church.

In the winter of 1899 the farmers drew the stone from the lake's shore, all labour being donated, and by 1901 Valentine Brothers of Norland had built this church. Jerry Taylor, a Yorkshire man from Mountain Lake, fashioned and finished the interior in ash v-joint boarding with William Henry Stevens, and earning $1.50 per day. He also donated one-tenth of his earnings.

There are two wrought iron lamps on each side of the entrance, donated by the Oliver family in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oliver; also, a brass plate above the wall inside with the above inscription. As you enter the porch there stands a desk with a Visitor's Book, given by Miss Charlotte Cooper.

All the church furniture, pews, font, desk, bishop's chair and communion table came from St. John's Church, Cambray, which had been destroyed by fire. St. Stephen's passed the original communion table, lectern and font on to St. Andrew's Church, West Guilford.

The communion cruets and silver wafer box were inscribed and presented by the Ladies Guild, and also the electric light on the reading desk. The lights on the organ and lectern were given by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Oliver. The hanging lights were bought by the congregation from Bracebridge. The dorsal hanging behind the communion table was given by Mrs. Emma Ackerman, in memory of her husband, and a framed inscription was placed on the wall.

The sun shining through the gothic windows falls on the red carpet bought by the Ladies Guild, and all this presents to the eye of the visitor a church worthy of its worshippers. They now have installed a new organ to add to its music.

Old settlers living nearby give constant care and the iron fence has been just recently painted. The arched stone gateway holds memorial tablets to the memory of the Welch Brothers and Arthur Harrison, who gave their lives in World War I.

A Plea
For All MankindThe Saviour gave his life for men
With love that was beyond their kin;He died that Grace to us might come,
That we no more from God should roam.Alas! How men reject His Grace
And go their ways in things so base;Neglect His word and scorn His love,
And through unrecognized darkness tread.Oh that man would seek his way,
On love and truth their lives would sway;That all on earth His word would find,
Then Christ could rule in every mind.

Practical Christianity

By GLEN R. PITTS

In Acts 16:31 we read these well known words, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." But what is believing?

Martin Luther once said: "There are two kinds of believing — first, a believing about God which means that I believe that what is said of God is true. This faith is rather a form of knowledge than of faith. There is, secondly, a believing God which means that I put my trust in Him . . . and believe without any doubt that He will be, and do to me according to the things said of Him. Such faith which throws itself upon God, whether in life or in death, alone makes a man a Christian." In other words, although believing things about God is important, it is only personally believing God that saves a man.

A student at Cambridge was once brought under the preaching of the Gospel and came forward to accept the Lord. Before leaving he said to the preacher, "If I have any difficulty may I call and see you?" "Certainly," replied the man of God. The next morning he did call to say, "I am afraid I decided too hastily last night. I have been looking for some token that I have been saved, but I cannot find any." "Well, didn't I tell you that you could see me this morning if you had any difficulty?" "Yes," he said, "Well, why didn't you ask me for my watch as a token that I would keep my word? If you could believe me by faith; if you could put your confidence in a fallible mortal, why should you now look for a token from God — can't you also take Him at His Word?" The young convert saw the point, and by resting on the Scriptural "thus saith the Lord," he found the assurance he needed. Remember, believing about God is knowledge, but believing God is faith! "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works lest any man should boast" (Eph. 2:8,9).

Paul said in Romans 10:9,10 "That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."

"These are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his name." (John 20:31)

Power People — Chefs

Tossed salads, steaks and chinese food are everyday fare in Hydro cafeterias—you should sample the chefs' preparations for special occasions. Camp life can't be exactly like home but every effort is made to make sure the food is.

Meals are the most important event in the working lives of Hydro employees in the field—except for payday. Preparing food in sufficient quantity and variety to satisfy the huge appetites and many tastes of these hard working men is the demanding job of Hydro's chefs.

As a visiting female dietician once learned (much to her chagrin) food preparation for 800 or 900 men is done on a grand scale. When she asked a project chef if he'd tried a recipe using a cup of this and a teaspoon of that, she was told indignantly: "Lady, around here we use buckets and shovels."

Though perhaps exaggerated for effect, the comment is basically true. An average construction worker eats some six and one half pounds of food a day—that's almost 6,000 pounds a day for a 900 man camp—not to mention hundreds of gallons of soup, tea, coffee and milk. And all this food must be served in the normal one-hour allowed for meals.

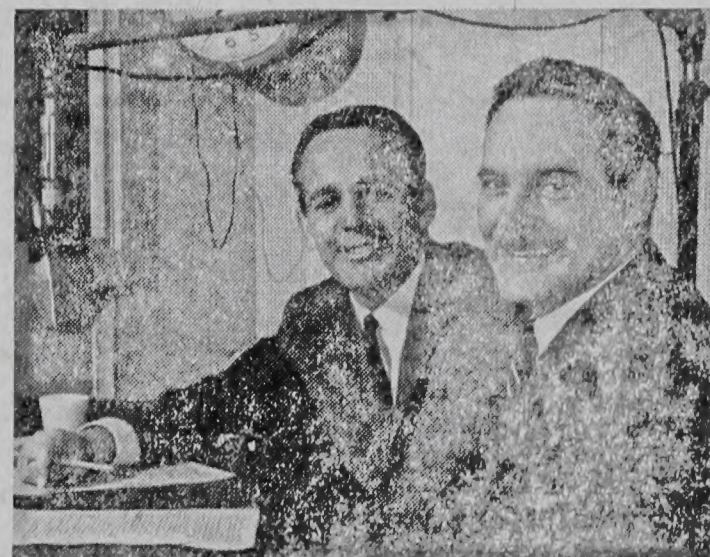

Not all of Hydro's chefs are employed on large projects. Many cook for much smaller groups of men in-line construction or survey camps, or at staff dormitories in Hydro communities.

But large or small, Thursday night is always 'steak night' for Hydro employees across the province. On Thursdays particularly, the standing invitation for second helpings is taken up with gusto.

Hydro recognizes that a well-fed workman is a more efficient workman. Or, to paraphrase an old adage, the way to his enthusiasm is through his stomach. Hydro's chefs help produce kilowatts by making sure the men leave the table satisfied.
